

Relationship between sector boundaries and cosmic ray intensity and anisotropy

Kobylinski, Z. and Kadej, J.

Siedlce University, Dept. of Physics, Siedlce, 08-110, Poland

Abstract

Cosmic ray intensity variations and anisotropy around IMF sector boundaries during solar minima are investigated by using the Chree epoch and the global survey methods and compared with predictions of theoretical calculations of the transport equation. Three components of anisotropy vector are calculated. An increase of cosmic ray intensity before crossing through sector boundary is observed.